

Bio Excerpt for Kristin Anderson

Kristin began her career as a high school English teacher for students who were kicked out of Denver Public Schools. Since then, she has worked in multiple K–12 settings in various instructional and administrative roles, and has obtained credentials and advanced degrees from Sterling College, Kansas, The University of Denver, and The University of Colorado, and is currently enrolled in a doctoral studies program in Educational Leadership and Organizational Culture and Change at The University of Southern California and an Implementation Science certificate program at The University of Melbourne.

Over the past seven years, she has studied Visible Learning and the Science of How We Learn research under John Hattie and was recognized as the United States delegate and speaker at the first annual International Conference on Visible Learning in Brisbane, Australia. Since then, she has spoken at each annual International Conference on Visible Learning in San Diego, London, and Washington D.C. and at multiple National VL institutes and symposiums in North America and Australia.

Kristin R. Anderson is an incredibly passionate educator who strives to bring joy, hope, and empowerment to learners across the globe by helping them unleash their brilliance. She motivates systems leaders, educators, consultants, and students to leverage their strengths and apply research principles that have the greatest impact on student learning into practice.