

Webinar
Instructional Observation for District Leaders
November 22, 2022

Join us for this one-day overview of a proven effective process for instructional observation. This process is perfect for principals, coaches and any other district position that are responsible for teacher observation and evaluation. We will review a step-by-step process of what to look for when observing for classroom management, culture, instructional preparation, differentiation, and quality. We will also discuss a process for the observation of curriculum fidelity to ensure equity of access for all students. This is a day to learn new skills on how to approach observation differently.

Presenter: Dr. Janie Pyle, Professional Learning Coordinator

Target Audience: Curriculum Directors, Administrators, or lead teachers assigned to the duty of overseeing curriculum writing.

Registered attendees will receive a recording of the session 24 hours after it has concluded.
