

Curriculum Design and Review

Effective instruction in the classroom starts with effective written curriculum that is clear and easy to access. Join us as we discuss the steps involved in designing effective curriculum.

This step-by-step process will include, choosing shared definitions, creating an overall format, and unit development. You will review and use a variety of rubrics, templates, and other useful documents. We will also provide a format for a district Curriculum Handbook to demonstrate your process and products.

This training will also be useful for those that have completed parts or complete content as we review a process for review and revision.
