

Developing a Growth Mindset

When students have a growth mindset, they are more likely to challenge themselves, believe that they can achieve more, and become more resilient and creative problem solvers. Helping students unlock the power of their learning not only promotes student success, but it also opens the door for curiosity and empowers the student in their own learning. During this webinar, we will take a look at Growth Mindset (as defined by Carol Dweck) and how we can leverage this within our classrooms to help increase student learning.

Sample topics for this training include:

- Understanding Mindsets
- Key Characteristics of Growth Mindset
- Benefits of a Growth Mindset
- The Link Between Productive Struggle and Growth Mindset
- Strategies for Development
- Interactive Exercises

Participants will leave the webinar with practical strategies and insights on how to cultivate a growth mindset in our school districts.
